

PICK A PLATE

Year 6 students were trying to explore efficient number strategies through the use of simple rules. They applied the rules to calculate the total of the number plates in the activity. To make the learning more authentic and exciting they decided to go out and record some number plates of the cars passing by their school. They had to be very fast in reading the numbers and recording them down. Once they had recorded about 10 number plates then they came back and applied the rule and strategy to find the total of each of them.

The group applied the rule and strategy to work out the total of the number plate recorded.
